If you're tired of constantly being on the receiving end of useless ads when browsing the Internet, it's time for you to turn the tables and put the ads on the other side. When browsing the Internet, people who run Adblock software automatically filter out ads in order to keep their experience free from annoying pop-ups. Since Adblock users don't see any ads, they can pretty much skim through their favorite sites without any distraction. While most people consider that sort of filtering practice to be a good thing, it's not always a profitable thing. However, if you think that you could benefit from the same Adblock service, then give Adblock Firefox extension a try. Adblock Firefox is a free extension designed with the sole purpose of blocking out ads that don't give way to the browsing experience. It works as soon as you've installed it, blocking any ads that it finds on every page that you visit. In order to access the extension, all you need to do is simply open the Firefox browser in your Mac or Windows computer and click the Adblock icon that you see on the main toolbar. As soon as the extension is installed, it's going to start working and block out all the ads that it finds. However, like all other adblock extensions, it won't work on each and every site that you go to online. To be able to activate the extension you'll need to simply click the three dots icon on the top right corner of the Firefox browser's window. This will open up the extension's settings where you can set your filter preferences. Once the settings are set, you'll be able to simply click on the Fire button to start blocking ads. It's up to you whether or not you want to keep on blocking ads as long as you're on the site. Adblock Firefox installation: If you're using Windows 7, you can download the extension in the executable format. Simply download the.exe file and double click on it so it runs. If you're using Windows Vista, you can download the.msi installer from the adblock official website. Just download the.exe file and run it after installation. If you're using any other version of Windows, you can just use the browser extension. You don't have b7e8dfd5c8
